

Travel Journal Entry 5: En Route to New Zealand

Hi Trekkers!

Well, here I am on an Air New Zealand Flight from Hong Kong to Auckland, New Zealand. We departed Hong Kong at 7:15 p.m. and will arrive in Auckland at 10:15 a.m. tomorrow. The flight will take 11 hours.

I can't wait to land. I hear that there are plenty of beaches close to the city and I want to spend some time relaxing and swimming. There is so much to see and do! I am not sure what I want to explore first. I have read that there are 48 volcanic cones, 50 islands, 2 mountain ranges and 3 harbours all in the Auckland area. It is also one of the largest cities in New Zealand with almost 1.3 million people.

I will try to get some sleep because I want to get out and explore New Zealand when I land. Who knows, maybe I'll run into a kiwi or two? The kiwi is New Zealand's official bird.

Bye for now,

Zoë